

The Button Game

by Celinda Snow
February 12, 2010

Print out the coats on letter sized paper. You will need paper bags to put the buttons in. Place 10 buttons of the same color together and 6 white buttons for bag number one. For bag number two place 10 buttons of a different color and 6 white buttons together. Once you have the buttons placed on to a page, print them out. Next paste or glue them on to cardboard and cut them out. For more than 2 players, use other colors. For each bag all the buttons will need to be the same size, texture, and weight.

HOW TO PLAY: The object of the game is to see which player can put all the buttons on his coat first. After the buttons have been placed in the bag, the players take turns drawing one button from the bag. If a white button is drawn, the player puts it back into the bag and the other player takes his or her turn. The first player to button his coat with buttons is the winner.

Options: Instead of printing out the buttons consider using a penny or quarter to trace circles on to thick white paper and coloring them with crayons or pencils and cutting them out. Or you can use real buttons.

